Longtime taxpayers speak out

Bay Council hears drainage complaints

By JUNE M. HEYDT

Bay St. Louis City Council members are still plagued by problems with the city's drainage system.

At their regular meeting Tuesday night in City Hall, Myrtle Lanaux of 400 Washington Street, Bay St. Louis addressed the council asking when they were going to look into her drainage problems.

"You keep talking about doing a study on the Spanish Acres and Cedar Point drainage but, what about the other 90 percent of the people—we are taxpayers too," she said.

Lanaux went on to state that she had called Mayor Larry Bennett and that he sent some people out to see what they could do to alleviate the problem.

"They put in two plastic barrels as a barricade but it didn't help very much. You wouldn't like it if you were knee deep in water in your own house," she told council members.

Bennett told Lanaux that he has been in contact with the L&N Railroad people and found out that the city is responsible for the upkeep of the ditches on the side where she lives. He said, "We will get an engineer or somebody to go in there and dig up the problem."

Lanaux added, "You want the tax money but you don't want to do anything about our problems. Where is the $52,000 for the study coming from for Spanish Acres and Cedar Point sections? What about the rest of us? Why don't you ask for a study for the whole city?"

Councilman James Thrifflay said that the monies for the study did come from the taxpayers. Lanaux then added, "Well, I've been paying taxes here for a long time."

Gene Taylor, council member, said, "We are going after the greatest need for the cheapest cost."

Lanaux continued, saying, "I've been here 30 years and that's longer than Spanish Acres or Cedar Point people have been here. I think I deserve some consideration and should be considered as much a part of the problem."

Bart Carr, another resident of Bay St. Louis who has the same problem, said he came to the meeting also to see what could be done. He made the statement that, "Mr. Thrifflay has come to see the drainage problem after the frequent rains. I came here tonight to see what is being done about it."

Carr said, "I think the problem could be eliminated if the ditches were maintained." He added that he was, "totally frustrated and discouraged."

Council members suggested that they make a motion to go ahead and accept the proposal for estimated cost and construction presented by engineer James Chiniche for the areas discussed and also that they advertise for bids in order to expedite this work. Motion was accepted.

Chiniche addressed the council stating, "Mike Smith of Advanced Developments, Inc. is doing a survey of the entire county and cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland. I met with him and discussed his master plan. He's not quite finished yet but it will be an asset for us when it is finished. The information he is collecting will be a good tool for us to use," he said.

Ron Murray, president of Ron Murray Consultants, Inc. took this opportunity to address the council concerning a project program that the city may be eligible for. The project is offered under the Economic Development Administration and has been developed to help out areas throughout the nation with unemployment problems.

Murray received a letter from Leslie Newcomb of South Mississippi Planning and Development District. The memo outlined the "Jobs Bill" project. The project is under the U.S. Department of Commerce and offers a program in which the Economic Development Administration will match funds for projects such as water and sewer if the city meets the proper specifications.

The specifications needed are a letter of request from the governing board of the city to EDA Jobs Act Project containing a request for assistance under the jobs bill, brief description of the proposed project, and a clear and specific project location.

Upon receipt of the request, an application package will be mailed to the city if it is determined eligible.

The application must contain information on civil rights and environment, project site ownership documents, schematic drawings, cost estimates, and specifications, evidence of local matching share, and certification that EDA funds are needed to complete the project.

A total of $100 million has been appropriated nationwide for projects such as this. The jobs money will be targeted to areas with the highest unemployment rates.

Council authorized Bennett to send a letter of request to EDA. Bennett said, "I have already sent maps and a request along with a copy of Chiniche's study."

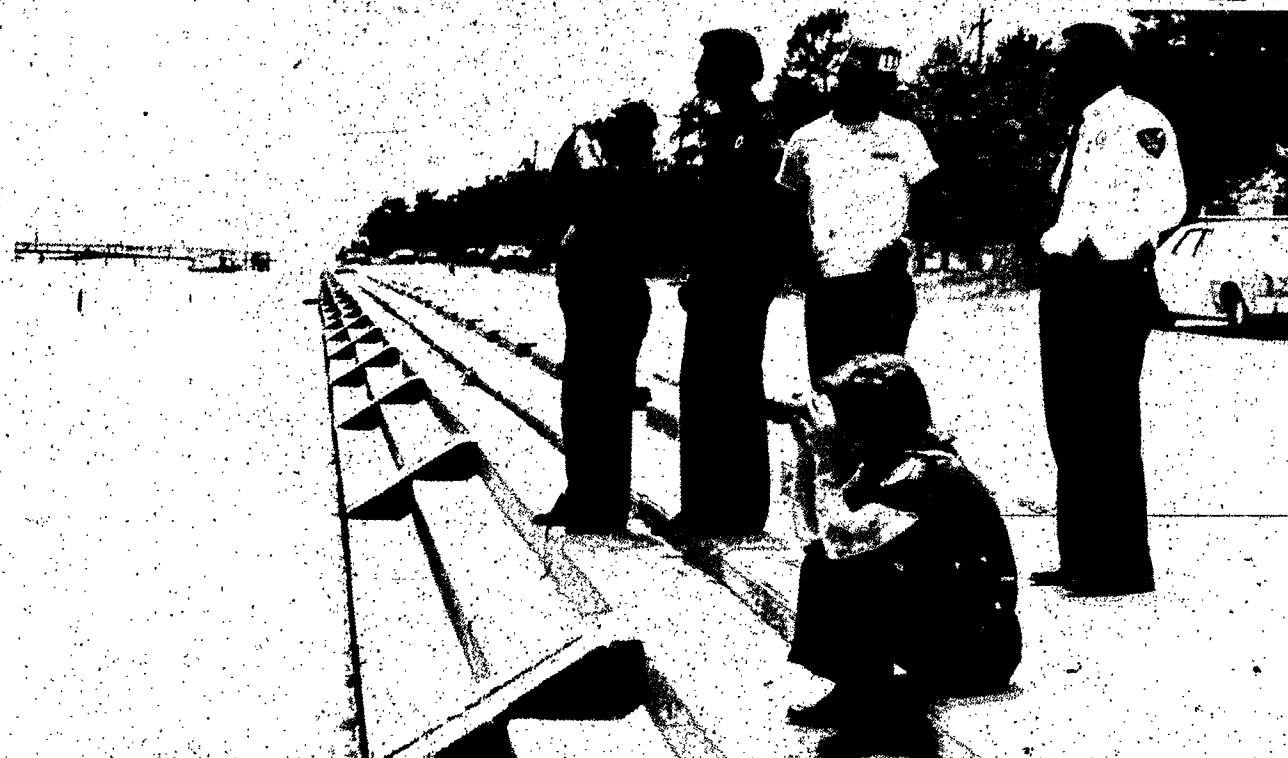

In other business council passed a motion to advertise for bids for the rehabilitation of eleven homes under the Housing Rehabilitation Project, 1982 Community Development Block Grant program.

Council also passed a motion to advertise for bids for central heating units in eight of the houses under the housing rehabilitation program. The units will be bid separately.

Council passed a resolution adding four names to the city's eligible contractors list for housing rehabilitation projects. The contractors added are A&B Construction Co., Gulfport; E&S Construction Co., Bay St. Louis; and Singleton Construction Co., Bay St. Louis.

Bennett requested a motion for the council to authorize advertising for a new computer. He said, "The computer in the office was not working for nine out of 13 days last week." He noted, "Without the computer working we are getting way behind in the billing." Motion was passed.

A workshop or closed meeting was scheduled for Thursday at 5:30 p.m. to discuss personnel.

Robert Butler of the Bay St. Louis Police

Department, Robert Fruge of Slidell, Patrolman Veronica Hattabough of the Waveland Police Department, and Chief Douglas Williams of the Bay department. ## Police chief says:

Cause of Waveland drowning not known

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Waveland Police Department has no definitive reason why a Slidell boy drowned Monday while swimming in the Mississippi Sound with friends near the intersection of Beach Boulevard and Market Street.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland department stated Wednesday, "There is no reason why they (three boys) were out there (in water over their heads) or why he drowned."

Dorn speculated the youth might have experienced a muscle cramp and ruled out a fish attack as cause of or leading to the boy's death.

Wesley Lindsey, 16, of Slidell was reported missing at 1:03 p.m. and the crew of a Hancock County Civil Defense boat found the boy's body underwater during dragging operations at about 3:35 p.m., the chief reported.

Dorn said Lindsey was with Darrell Manerow, 14, and Joey Seane, 16, all members of a group from Central Baptist Church in Slidell picnicking at nearby Buccaneer State Park, who all ventured into the Sound to swim.

Travis Moore and Robert Fruge, both adult supervisors of the Slidell group, called the two surviving youths back to shore who reported the water was over their heads. Lindsey was holding on to a pole (probably a trawling boundary marker) the last time they saw him and "then they didn't see him anymore," the chief reported.

The youths had begun wading seaward after climbing into the water from a nearby pier, he added.

Dorn said Lindsey's body was found underwater about 50 feet from the pole by the civil defense boat which was one of five boats participating in the operation.

Lindsey drowned north of U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredging operation which is attempting to fill the deep hole, an underwater crater in the Mississippi Sound which has claimed about 25 lives during the last several years.

Participating in the search were the State Marine Conservation Commission, Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments, Hancock County Sheriff's Department and civil defense.

Mobile Medic personnel stood by during the operation.

Lindsey's body was sent from Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis to Honaker Funeral Home in Slidell for services and burial.

UW '83 kickoff slated Sept. 1

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County United Way Board of Directors will conduct its annual fund raising campaign kickoff breakfast Sept. 1.

Pat Harvill of Waveland, a board member, at a recent director's meeting noted the event will be conducted at a yet to be announced local restaurant and mark the beginning of the organization's 1983 campaign.

She said United Way volunteers, regular major contributors and government officials will be invited to the breakfast.

The organization this year increased its campaign goal by $5,000 to $45,000.

Hilda Bourg of Diamondhead is campaign chairman this year.

She recommended at the board meeting that the organization purchase window decals for contributing businesses to place in front windows signifying them as United Way givers.

The board agreed to investigate the feasibility of including the decals as a campaign promotional tool.

Also regarding publicity, the board agreed that each of the United Way's 14 fund recipient agencies should again be featured in publicity efforts to emphasize the local efforts of these organizations.

The recipient agencies include the Hancock County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Emergency Relief Fund, Blood Bank, Firemen's Doll and Toy Fund, Retired Senior Volunteer Program and Senior Citizens Program; Boy Scouts' Cypress District; Girl Scouts' Gulf Pines Council; Catholic Social Services; Gulf Coast Mental Health Center; United Service Organization—Worldwide; Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi, Inc.; Mississippi Council on Epilepsy, Inc.; Salvation Army; and Young Men's Christian Organization.

MUFFY GETS A HAIRCUT—Marty Chambers of 123 Ballentine Street has recently opened her dog grooming shop, "The Lucky Dog," at her new residence in Bay St. Louis. Some of the services she offers are hair cuts, baths, cutting toe nails, cleaning ears, and flea dips. Chambers says, "I can do any breed of dog from a New Foundland to a miniature poodle. I plan on working 7-days a week and will have flexible hours designed around the customer because a lot of working people can't bring their dog in until after 5 p.m." Chambers has been in the dog grooming business since December, 1980 and has a master's degree in zoology. Chambers also writes a monthly column on the care of pets for The Sea Coast Echo called, "You and Your Pet." Muffy is owned by Joe Gilbert. The dog is part schnauzer and part poodle so, of course, he's a Schnoodle. (Staff photo by June M. Heydt)

Barner will be in the lobby of the Gulfport bank, One Hancock Plaza, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and again from 3 to 5 p.m. to autograph copies of his book, "Mississippi Mayhem," a game-by-game history of one of the South's fiercest football rivalries — Mississippi State versus Ole Miss.

A native of the Mississippi Delta, he was born in Ruleville and was graduated from high school in Cleveland.

He is a graduate of the University of Mississippi with a bachelor of business administration degree, and studied journalism there and at the University of Missouri.

Barner has been on the staffs of newspapers in Tupelo and Charleston, S.C., and now lives in Atlanta, Ga., where he is a copy writer for a major advertising agency.

He was historian in the Air Force Reserve and is now retired with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

His interest in history has led him from early Mississippi development to Civil War battles to modern-day Air Force Reserve activities. His collection of memorabilia is the foundation for his book, "Mississippi Mayhem."

Fee for Service System to begin on Gulf Coast

The Mississippi State Department of Health will introduce its patient Fee for Service System in the Coastal Plains Public Health District IX in June.

Counties in the district are George, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, and Stone. Leo Lackie is administrator in District IX.

The Fee for Service System will help the state public health agency continue to provide local level services that might otherwise be eliminated because of cutbacks in state and federal funding.

The fee system includes small charges for some personal health services that traditionally have been provided free of charge. For example, patients will pay a fee for maternity, heart, diabetes, hypertension, and certain child health services for those aged seven to 21. Patients will also continue to pay fees for family planning services.

"Most public health services are still free, though," emphasized Lackie. "We do not plan charges for our basic preventive services in childhood immunizations, sexually transmitted disease control, tuberculosis and related disease control efforts."

"Nor do we propose any fees for environmental health services in drinking water testing, milk and shellfish sanitation, or food and general sanitation programs," he added.

The 13-member Mississippi State Board of Health approved implementation of the fee system as a pilot project in East Central Public Health District VI headquartered in Meridian in December 1981.

Since, the system has been introduced in Southeast, West Central, Northeast, Northwest, Delta Hills and Tombigbee Public Health Districts headquartered in Hattiesburg, Jackson, Tupelo, Batesville, Greenwood and Starkville, respectively.

"The Fee for Service System is not a cure-all for the Department of Health's loss in state and federal money," said District IX Administrator Lackie. "But it is one way we as individuals can help insure the continuation of vitally needed public health care services."

"Mississippi has among the highest infant mortality rates in the nation," said Lackie. "Compared to other states, more teenagers in Mississippi have babies before they're physically or emotionally grown-up enough to become parents. We have more people with high blood pressure than almost any other state in the nation."

The Fee for Service System will start as follows: Jackson County - June 6; George and Stone Counties - June 13; Pearl River and Hancock Counties - June 20; Harrison County (Gulfport and Pass Christian offices) - June 27; Harrison County (Biloxi and Saucier clinics) - July 5.

Under the new Fee for Service System, health department patients will pay charges based on a sliding fee scale. Factors include the individual patient's income, number of dependents, and services received. For those who qualify, Medicare, Medicaid, or Title XX will pay.

Each patient is expected to pay the full amount due, but nobody will be denied services.

Quotables by CUEVAS

We know many times you have heard the expression, 'You cannot win for losing.'

We had conversation several days ago with a property owner on US-90 in Bay St. Louis who really feels that way because he is unable to keep people from dumping on his land.

This is a serious matter, this land owner, like others in the area face the same problem over and over.

They spend money on cleaning up the used furniture, appliances and other debris illegally dumped only to have more trash arrive as soon as the location is cleared.

The City of Bay St. Louis is making a concentrated effort to have grass cut on medians of US-90 and debris picked up, but people continue to go along as if the whole area were a dump.

Like one property owner told us, 'I cannot spend day and night watching for the illegal dumpers,' and indicating police could not do it either.

True, if a few persons were nabbed and had to either clean up the trash and pay a fine, this may curtail some of the dumping. As you know this would probably not eliminate the problem all the way.

There should be some solution to the problem and we just wonder if anyone has any ideas.

The grass is cut, and the trash was picked up, but the debris continues to fall.

We were glad to see the Hancock County Board of Supervisors accept a resolution from the Trustees of Hancock General Hospital regarding the construction of a new facility.

HGH's original building is 23-years-old and was constructed to support 35 beds and that was later increased to 56 beds. This has caused a severe shortage of space for related support services.

The resolution submitted by HGH's trustees is to construct a 65 bed hospital with support services for future expansion to approximately 100 beds.

Our area has grown by leaps and bounds since HGH was constructed, and a new hospital is something needed to go with our continued growth.

We are hoping a new hospital is in the immediate future for Hancock County, for sure, it is really needed.

Congratulations Class of 1983

Many of our area young men and women are graduating from high school at this time.

We urge everyone receiving a diploma to continue their educations.

In today's world an education is the most important factor as to whether a person will be a success or not. We do realize there will be exceptions, but as our society progresses, the exceptions will be fewer and fewer.

We do want to congratulate each graduating senior and wish them success in the coming years.

There are also those graduating from colleges and universities, they too should be congratulated.

STATE TROOPER REMEMBERED—A wreath was placed on the grave site of William (Bill) Kenny, Mississippi State Trooper (Highway Patrolman) on Sunday by his son David Kenny, a Mississippi State Trooper in recognition of National Police Week. The senior Kenny was killed in the line of duty in December 1977. He was reared in Bay St. Louis and was a member of the Highway Patrol for 18 years. Among those participating in the special ceremonies at St. Mary's Cemetery are, from left, Trooper Harold Holder, Virginia Kenny, daughter-in-law; Mike Kenny, son; Mrs. Elsie Kenny, widow of Kenny who is holding his grandson William Kenny, Trooper Bill Dillon, partially hidden; Cindy Kenny, daughter-in-law; Trooper David Kenny, son; Trooper Houston Doerr, and Sergeant Pete Pope. The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol held special services throughout the state at the grave-sites of fallen comrades in observance of the National Police Week. Personnel of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Bay St. Louis Police Department also participated. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

GOVERNMENT IS STILL BIG PROBLEM

FOR SMALL BUSINESS
There is now telling evidence that government is the principal antagonist to small-business expansion and prosperity.

At random survey of small-business owners clearly shows that government-related impediments to small-business growth are the major concerns of those polled. The survey by the National Federation of Independent Business, conducted between mid-October and mid-November of last year, asked small-business owners to rate 72 problems in order of severity. More than 7,000 NFIB members participated.

The cost of liability insurance was number two among the majority and the cost of property and casualty insurance ranked number six. (Number one was interest rates, but NFIB researchers say high interest rates were still near their peak at the time of the survey.)

Small-business concerns ranked in this order: interest rates; cost of liability insurance; cost of natural gas, gasoline and fuel oil; telephone rates, and, cash flow. The next five concerns in order were: cost of property and casualty insurance; electricity costs; payroll taxes, poor earnings; and, projecting future sales changes.

With the exceptions of cash flow, poor earnings and projected future sales changes, the major problems encountered by small business are either regulated or determined in some way by government. The survey demonstrates that government causes seven out of ten of the most serious problems of small-business people.

What can we do about these problems? First, state regulatory commissions must become aware of the influence of their actions on the success or failure of small businesses. More equitable distribution of the costs of regulated expenses such as liability, property and casualty insurance, energy and telephone rates will help reduce the overhead of small business.

A previous study by the Cabot Consulting Group of Washington, D.C. showed that small business paid significantly higher utility rates than either of the two other categories of users. This study also indicates that other ratemaking bodies and regulatory bureaucracies too often lower the boom on small business.

Because small-business people spend most of their time running their businesses, they are hard-pressed to follow rate-making procedures or the actions of other regulatory agencies. They cannot afford to retain highly paid accountants or attorneys to monitor proposed regulations. They can communicate their concerns and provide information to organizations in Washington and the state capitals, such as NFIB. And they can contact politicians and bureaucrats. Small-business people are concerned about the tilt of regulations which causes them to subsidize other segments of society — business and the consumer.

Prom Night

Each year, as high school prom time approaches, my thoughts turn to the carnage that occurs on our highways when young people drink and drive.

How many youngsters, I wonder, kids who even now are preparing eagerly for the festivities of the graduation season, will be cut down in smoking tangles of steel and shattered glass in the days and weeks ahead?

The imagery isn't pretty, but it's real. And no one can say, "It won't happen to my child." In fact, it does happen, with depressing regularity.

It happens to some 10,000 young people between the ages of 15 and 24 each year. Alcohol-related traffic fatalities are, far and away, the leading cause of death for this, otherwise, extraordinarily healthy age group.

As I noted in this column a few months ago, preventing teenage alcohol abuse is a challenge that faces our entire nation. I applaud state and local governments across the country for the actions that they are taking to deal with the drinking-and-driving problem.

States and communities are enforcing their drunk driving laws more strictly; many state legislatures have raised the legal drinking age to 21.

I also applaud the many student and parent groups who, today, are giving meaningful expression to their concern about drinking and driving.

In Wayland, Massachusetts, for example, a group called Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) started a program to prevent that kind of destructive behavior by their peers. This program model now has spread across Massachusetts, and into many other areas of the country.

Parent groups, such as Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) and Remove Intoxicated Driver (RID), also are spreading.

Still, recent survey of high school seniors found that they do a good deal of their drinking in cars. Fifty percent said they drink in cars at least some of the time, and 24 percent indicated that most of their drinking is done in cars.

The opportunities for tragedy in this combination of alcohol and automobiles are great. The risks multiply on special occasions, such as prom night. Meant to be the happiest of evenings, prom nights too often turn into nightmares, for youngsters, their parents and the community.

Last month, at the national Conference for Youth on Drinking and Driving, sponsored by the Secretary of Health and Human Services, we learned about "Project Graduation," a most impressive effort by people in the state of Maine to keep graduation week fatality-free.

For years, Maine's school and law-enforcement officials had approached prom time with foreboding. Then, in 1979, just two weeks before graduation, seven alcohol-related fatalities occurred in just one area of the state. Saddened and outraged, state and local leaders decided to put an end to this needless carnage.

The Drug and Alcohol Team of Oxford Hill, Maine, got things started by conducting a number of community awareness activities, culminating in a popular alcohol and drug-free party for the seniors in 1980.

Commenting on the success of that first party, one law-enforcement official observed that "graduation night was quieter than an ordinary night on patrol in the community."

By 1982, the entire state of Maine was involved. School districts across Maine reported successful "chemical-free" graduation parties, some held on cruise boats, some in dance halls with live bands, some at state parks and camp grounds.

Growing Child

LEARNING HOW TO PLAY
Friendliness, like courtesy, makes the give and take of life more enjoyable. And, like courtesy, friendliness is learned by experience as well as by example.

When a child begins walking is a good time to give him a start in learning the art of being friendly, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. At two years old, children are so busy exploring, so curious about people and things, that they have not yet become self-conscious about themselves. This is the ideal time for them to meet other children in a play situation.

Even though children don't usually play with other children until they are about three, two-year-olds are not too young to learn the fun of mutual exchange. Skills in "getting along" with others will increase with each exchange and self-confidence will grow with each new acquaintance made.

Friendliness is basically a love of other people, and enjoyment of their company, and a spontaneous desire to please them.

Beginning at two years, it is a good idea to take a toddler to some place where other children play two or three times a week. Toddlers get acquainted with other children in their own way and at their own rate. Don't push them, but quietly encourage them to respond to any overtures made.

Don't be overprotective, either! Toddlers must learn some give and take, and that includes holding on to a toy when another child snatches it.

A little roughness and noise are not fatal. Toddlers should have the chance to learn to stand up for their rights!

These early play experiences help children learn to play side by side or in company with other children, and to share and exchange toys. At this age, communication is largely wordless. Most toddlers talk more to themselves than to others.

This early play behavior is known as "parallel play." Only after a long period of parallel play do young children begin to engage in cooperative play, which requires more language skill than most toddlers have at two years.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

ETV Brief

GREAT CHEFS
Goffredo Fraccaro's La Riviera restaurant in Metairie is the next stop on "Great Chefs of New Orleans" at 6 p.m., Saturday, May 21, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Chef Goffredo Fraccaro spent his youth in northern Italy in the area that touches France near Monaco. He shares with viewers some of the recipes influenced by those years.

For the camera, Fraccaro prepares crab-stuffed ravioli and fried squid for appetizers. Next come Broccolone, using a tender piece of veal. His sauce includes finely chopped onions, carrots, celery and garlic sautéed in olive oil and tomato puree. His broccoli side dish is plunged in boiling water, then almost ignited in olive oil and garlic.

Dessert is prepared by Chef Arthur Wardsworth: a simple custard with a caramel topping flavored with vanilla and a little lemon peel.

If your budget, like most, is somewhat on the skinny side these days, do as thrifty housewives have done through the ages—stretch the meat with vegetables or pasta or rice.

One of the easiest and tastiest of the "Splendid Stretchers" is Moussaka, almost the national dish of Greece, and quite a culinary treat—a mixture of ground beef, eggplant, potatoes and seasonings, layered in a casserole with a Bechamel sauce.

Don't turn away at the mention of Bechamel sauce... it's only a fancy French name for white or cream sauce... or you may even use canned cream of mushroom or cream of celery soup is you wish. Here's

MUSSAKA
3 medium eggplants
1 lb. ground meat, or a bit more
2 cups olive oil
6 medium potatoes
4 or 5 Tbsp. tomato paste
2 cups chopped onion
2 garlic cloves, minced
6 Tbsp. butter or margarine
Bechamel sauce
Slice the eggplant about a half inch thick, leaving skin on, and sprinkle generously with salt so that it won't be bitter, then let drain for 15 or 20 minutes.

Rinse off salt, dry the eggplant, then fry a few slices at a time, taking care not to crowd the pan, in the hot oil till a nice brown on each side.

(You may cut the cost by searing on the olive oil, or using other oil—or, especially if you're watching calories, too, brush the slices lightly with oil and brown under the broiler).

Meanwhile, slice the potatoes, peeled, about a quarter-inch thick, and fry the same way, adding more oil if needed. Sauté the onion and garlic in the butter and add the ground beef, stirring and cooking for 10 minutes or so, until ready.

Add seasonings... and, if you really want to go more authentic Greek style, add a teaspoon each of dried mint and chopped parsley, along with a scant half teaspoon of ground cinnamon.

Cook for a few more minutes, until liquid is reduced. Then arrange a layer of the eggplant in a shallow oiled baking dish, then a layer of potatoes and half the beef mixture. Repeat the layering.

Cover with the sauce and bake for a half hour or more at 375 degrees until the sauce "sets". Run the dish under the broiler if it isn't browned enough to suit you. (Six servings).

* Bechamel or white sauce: Melt a stick of butter or margarine, stir in three-fourth cup flour, stir together while cooking, add milk to proper consistency, along with dashes of salt and pepper, blending well, and cook until thickened as you wish... or use creamed soup if you're in a hurry or don't feel like stirring up your own sauce.

Supervisor Travirca seeking fourth term

Hancock County District Five Supervisor James N. (Jimmy) Travirca reports he is seeking re-election to a fourth term in the Aug. 2 primary.

Travirca was first elected to the post in 1971, and was re-elected to his current term in 1979.

"It has been an honor and a privilege to serve the people of District Five and Hancock County for the past 12 years," Travirca said.

"I have tried at all times to make sure that the best interests of the people are always served through my office," the candidate added.

A Fenton Community farmer, Travirca is a lifelong resident of Hancock County.

He is a veteran of World War II and a member of American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 6285 in The Kiln.

He serves on the South Mississippi Planning and Development District board of directors and as the organization's treasurer for the past six years, and also serves that organization as the energy coordinator for Hancock County.

TIMBERLINE

By David Watts
Hancock County Forester

Finally, I think we can safely say that the 1982-83 season for wildfires is about over, barring a prolonged drought.

I want to take this opportunity to say "thanks" to all of you readers who called in your fires (or to report other ones) during the normal fire season.

Your cooperation was, and is, needed — and you really came through.

From November through April, 158 fires burned 1996 acres in our county. That compares real good to our five-year average (1978-1982) of 309 fires on 7,892 acres.

The statewide picture was much the same — one of the lowest years for fire occurrence on record.

Highest fire occurrence months in our state are traditionally February and March when weather conditions and forest fuels are at critical danger levels.

In February and March we have cold fronts moving in bringing low humidity and high winds, forest vegetation is dead and dry, and winter rains normally slack off.

Even though we had a lot of well distributed rain, there were several days back in the winter when conditions were "right" for some bad fires. They didn't happen, because you folks were more careful than ever with your outdoor burning. I'm grateful, but our crews are even more so, since it's their lives that are most often on the line when wildfires break out and must be controlled.

Let's continue to build on this excellent 1982-83 fire record in our county. It's pretty much up to you, you know.

County Agent's Notes

By John Smith

Watch for Cutworms

Wet, cool conditions like we have had in April in early May are very favorable to cutworm outbreaks. Farmers should keep this in mind as they plant soybeans and corn.

Cutworms can easily destroy a young field of soybeans or cotton in a few days if they are not controlled. Checking fields at least twice a week is needed. Since cutworms feed at night, applying insecticides in late afternoon is recommended.

Many of our soils are wet and some of our land has been subject to overflow. Wet conditions with cool-to-pleasant temperatures are the kind of environment cutworms thrive in.

The adult stage of the cut-worm emerges in late spring or early summer, usually laying eggs in low spots in fields and especially overflow land. The larvae which hatch stay under clods of dirt or other shelter during the day and come out and feed in the afternoon or at night.

Some kinds of cutworms cut the plant down at the soil level, which usually cause our greatest problems. Others climb the stalk and strip off the leaves. Still other types feed under the soil on roots and plant stems.

Controlling cutworms is critical to protect young crops. Insecticides recommended include Lorsban, Sevin, Dylux and Diazinon. Check the label carefully for crop use, rates and precautions. Contact the County Extension office for more details.

Buying Pesticides

Once a person buys a pesticide to control insects and other pests, whether the results are helpful or harmful depends on the user. That responsibility should not be taken lightly.

Taking the necessary precautions when buying and using pesticides will help the user protect himself, the family, pets and the environment while controlling the pest.

Buy the right pesticide for the pest you want to control. Buy only what you need to do the job. Read the label each time before you use the material and follow the directions and precautions.

Don't spray or dust with pesticides on a windy day. Clean up spilled pesticides right then and clean and put away equipment safely after use.

Store pesticides safely, out of reach of children and pets. Wash completely after using pesticides and dispose of empty containers in a safe manner.

Lloyd Anderson running for Dist. 3 supervisor

Former Hancock County Justice Court judge Lloyd Anderson of Crane Creek is seeking election to the county's Board of Supervisors from District Three.

Anderson is a graduate of Hancock North Central High School and served as District Three Justice Court judge for six and one-half years.

"I'm running on a platform of new leadership to get things happening," Anderson stated. "The county needs to be more creative and have fresh ideas," he continued.

"Every community in the district will be well represented and the tax dollars well spent if I am elected," Anderson added.

"A road program to upgrade and pave roads, a work program to work people on a rotating basis so the unemployed, handicapped and elderly can supplement their low and fixed incomes should be implemented," Anderson feels.

There are two sides to the benefits of CHIROPRACTIC

The Employee Benefits

Management is most receptive to benefits for employees that can be projected into benefits for the employer. Consider this: Independent studies made in California, Montana, Wisconsin, Florida, Kansas, Oregon, and Iowa show chiropractic to be more cost-effective. Visualize the advantages to your union members of a health care service that treats them as out-patients, keeping them on their feet, protecting their earning power. Imagine the financial advantages to the union's health and welfare program as well. If your health plan does not include chiropractic benefits, look into it. With chiropractic everybody gains.

Jourdan River Shores youth overall winner in First Annual HNC Powerlift competition

SCOTT CURET OF JOURDAN RIVER SHORES AND A SOPHOMORE, FIRST PLACE IN 115-POUND DIVISION AND OVERALL OUTSTANDING LIFTER—875-POUND POWERLIFT TOTAL

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Jourdan River Shores youth earned the Outstanding Overall Lifter title in the First Annual Hancock North Central Powerlift competition recently conducted at the school located near the White Cypress Community.

Scott Curet, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Curet, and an HNC High School sophomore, won the title.

Rocky Gaudin, an HNC assistant coach, reports Curet won first place in the 115-pound weight division by lifting a total of 875 pounds in three standard powerlift events.

Although older HNC competitors lifted more, Curet was chosen winner based on a 6.7-point score which is the quotient of his powerlift total divided by his body weight, Gaudin explains.

HNC lifters won first place awards in all 10 weight divisions and the meet by amassing 82 points compared to eight earned by St. John lifters, the assistant coach notes.

St. John won two third and two second place awards; Hancock earned 10 first, eight second and eight third place awards in the event, he explains.

First place winners not shown in photographs accompanying this report include Kenny Beech of the Fenton Community, a junior who lifted a total of 940 pounds in the 135-pound division; Stanley Jordan of White Cypress, a sophomore who lifted 935 pounds in the 145-pound division; and Steve McQueen of the Lakeshore Community, a junior who lifted 1,060 pounds in the 200-pound-plus division.

Gaudin says HNC's weightlifting program is a strength building program designed to improve the ability of school's football team members.

Hancock plans to again compete against St. John in a weightlifting meet to be scheduled sometime this summer, he reveals.

The assistant coach also states, "We would particularly like to put on a meet at the end of November, one in February and another Spring competition."

He feels three annual HNC powerlift events would help build the team's overall strength and firmly establish the school weightlifting program.

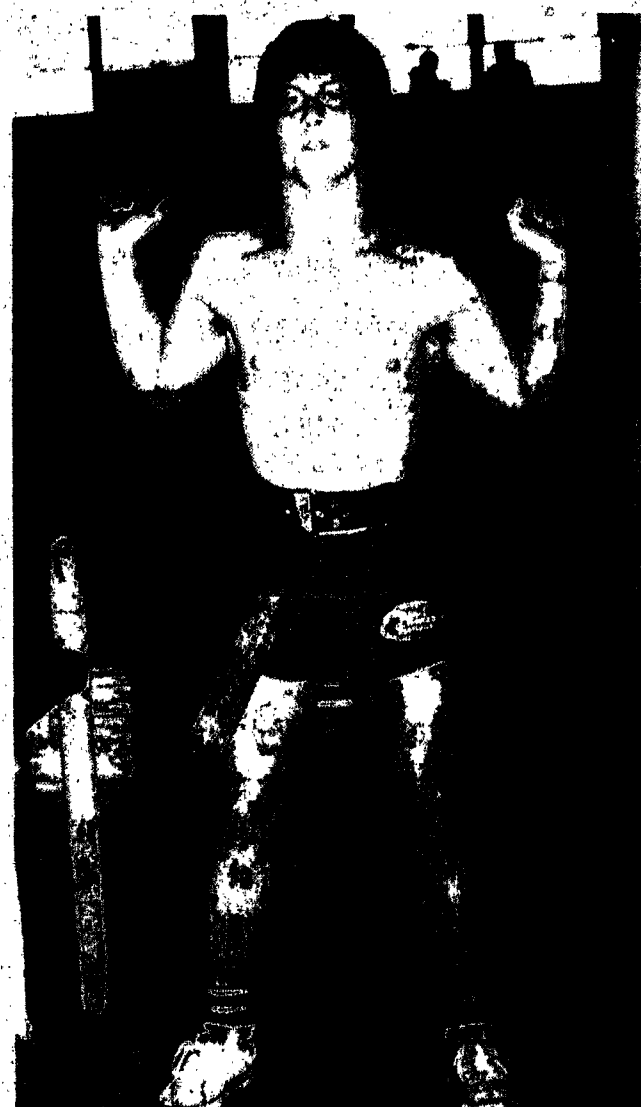

Irvin Favre is HNC head coach who is assisted by Gaudin and Tim Favre.

JD grads mark 'day of attainment'

Eula Switzer, chairperson of Gulf Coast Junior College's board, told 248 graduating sophomores at the Jefferson Davis Campus, "You are successes. This is your day of attainment."

Speaking at the graduation ceremony Tuesday, May 10, Switzer reminded the graduates that whether they intended to further their education or enter the work world, they had "worked hard and been successful." To those supportive of the graduates she said, "let us share your pride, happiness, and love."

Presentation of the degrees was made Tuesday by Dr. J.J. Hayden Jr., president of MGCC-JC and the graduates and audience were welcomed by Jefferson Davis' Campus - Dean G.W. Cadle.

Graduating with honors were Natalie Sonya Necaise, Pass Christian; Sharon Ann Fagot, Bay St. Louis; Martha S. Bourgeois, Waveland; and Patricia A. Wood, Pearl- ington.

USM expects good summer

Officials at the University of Southern Mississippi are expecting a summer enrollment to exceed previous summers throughout the USM system, according to Dr. Hugh Fruge, assistant vice-president for academic affairs.

"We have made a major effort in planning the summer term and bringing it to the attention of people throughout the area highlighting our comprehensive offerings of classes, unique fee structure, variety of scheduling options and other factors that benefit the student," Fruge said.

The depressed job market, cited by Fruge, is another reason many students will choose to remain in school during the summer.

In the unique fee structure USM has arranged payment on a per-hour basis of $39 per semester hour for the undergraduate student. Undergraduate students may register for nine to 14 semester hours for $343, as compared to the full-time fee during either the fall or spring semesters of $520.

Courses that are required for certain majors and are in high demand during the regular terms are also available in multiple sections during the summer making it possible for students who could not schedule the class during the regular term to work off some requirements during the summer.

Options in scheduling give the student the opportunity to take accelerated classes for either the first or second half of the session, however, the majority of summer offerings are for the full term.

Deans of other USM campuses in Natchez and on the Mississippi Gulf Coast echo the feelings of Fruge for a bumper summer enrollment.

Information about any summer activity can be obtained by writing: Summer Semester, University of Southern Mississippi, Box 5016, Southern Station, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5016.

ETV Brief

SHRIMP BOATS

Mississippi ETV cameras followed a shrimp boat captain and his crew at work on the Mississippi Gulf Coast recently for a half-hour documentary scheduled to air at 8 p.m., Monday, May 23.

The documentary, titled "Shell Ridge and Miss Judy," takes its name from Captain Arthur "Otto" Bosarge's two shrimp boats off the Mississippi Gulf Coast and observes the captain and his crew at work for two days.

An "impressionistic" style of production, according to producer Les Anderson, allows the subjects to tell their own story by simply going about their day-to-day business aboard the boats without the involvement of a narrator or interviewer.

Cameras also followed the crew members as they went about other day-to-day routine tasks.

Certification assistance available from state

This summer scholarships of up to $1,000 will be available for teachers who want to be certified to teach math or science in grades 7-12.

As one of the first efforts to implement the Education Reform Act of 1982, the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning approved a Summer Math-Science Teacher Retraining Program to begin this June.

The 1983 Legislature appropriated $90,000 for the retraining program.

The summer retraining scholarship is available to individuals holding a teaching certificate who can be certified in math or science in no more than three summer sessions. The total amount to be awarded each summer is a maximum of $1,000 to be used at a Mississippi public university.

All scholarship recipients must maintain a 2.25 grade point average each semester in which the scholarship is awarded. In receiving the scholarship, recipients agree to teach math or science in the state for as long as they have received their scholarship aid. If there is any breach of contract, the scholarship becomes a loan which must be repaid with interest and liquidated damages.

Questions about certification or eligibility should be directed to the office of Teacher Certification, P. O. Box 771, Jackson, MS 39205, or telephone (601) 359-3483.

For more information concerning the scholarship, contact the Board of Trustees, Student Financial Aid, P. O. Box 2336, Jackson, MS 39205, or telephone (601) 928-6188.
